CREATING THE MOST ENJOYED SPACE OF YOUR HOME

Creating a backyard getaway is the next best thing to being on vacation! According to Causal Living and HGTV's Outdoor Spaces Survey, more than three-fifths of responding customers do not take a vacation away from home. Nine out of ten take a "staycation" in addition to, or instead of travel.

Your backyard can become a resort that is just steps from your bedroom. It all begins with design: built in seating areas, fire pits, and a roof create a welcoming and inviting room right in your backyard. This seamless transition between the indoors and out will allow you to enjoy the same leisure and sophistication you would find at a top rated resort. Relax surrounded by nature with a book, cup of coffee, or a glass of wine.

"Now that the weather is warming, we likely will be spending less time in the front of the house and more time on our incredible new patio. It is clearly a showpiece and the envy of our neighbors. We expect it also to quickly become party central. We hosted Easter dinner and no one wanted to eat in the living room! Our guests chose to luxuriate on the gorgeous deck and around the fire pit. It was calm, relaxing and easily accommodated all seventeen of us!"
